

WATCHING THE OFFICIAL TMPD YOUTUBE CHANNEL

On March 25, 2016, the TMPD officially opened a channel on the video-sharing website YouTube and started uploading PR videos and other contents.

These videos have been designed to make viewers feel as if they were at a crime scene with officers, while, at the same time, providing them with an opportunity to easily understand a variety of TMPD police services.

▲ Official TMPD YouTube Channel

PR video (for general audiences)

PR video (the Queen Stars, or a group of female motorcycle police officers)

TMPD PR VIDEO "TOKYO METROPOLITAN POLICE DEPARTMENT 24"

In preparation for the upcoming Tokyo 2020 Olympic and Paralympic Games, the TMPD has produced this PR video so that people both in Japan and abroad can understand how we protect Tokyo and its residents. In the video for general audiences, we've reconstructed and dramatized crime scenes that show members of the Special Assault Team (SAT) suppressing terrorists, SP officers protecting VIPs, and detectives conducting a search and seizure at a boryokudan office.

Foreign language versions are also available, including English, Chinese, and Korean. In the video for children, PEOPPO explains the work of TMPD officers in plain language so that children can easily understand the contents.

◀ Detectives arresting an offender

▲ SP officers protecting VIPs

Information sharing on Twitter

Scan the QR code for details on TMPD planned events, general information on disaster preparation, and crime prevention (only in Japanese).

Information on incidents/crime prevention

User name: @MPD_yokushi (Crime Prevention Task Force's Twitter)

Information on disasters/disaster preparation

User name: @MPD_bousai (Natural Disaster and Accident Rescue Division's Twitter)

Information on open criminal investigations

User name: @MPD_keiji (Criminal Investigation Liaison Division's Twitter)

Information on police officer/staff employment

User name: @MPD_saiyo (Recruitment Center's Twitter)

Information on planned events and others

User name: @MPD_koho (Public Relations Division's Twitter)

Information on cyber security

User name: @MPD_cybersec (Cyber Security Control Task Force's Twitter)

TMPD online information

The TMPD provides the public with online information, including the "Crime Map" that displays the latest crime spots in local neighborhoods (except for island districts) and the "Crime Prevention News" that provides them with helpful tips. If you'd like to use this service, please register online. Send us a blank email at tourouku@info.keishicho.metro.tokyo.jp to receive the online registration form. Check the terms of service and send your consent back to us.

Information sharing on videos

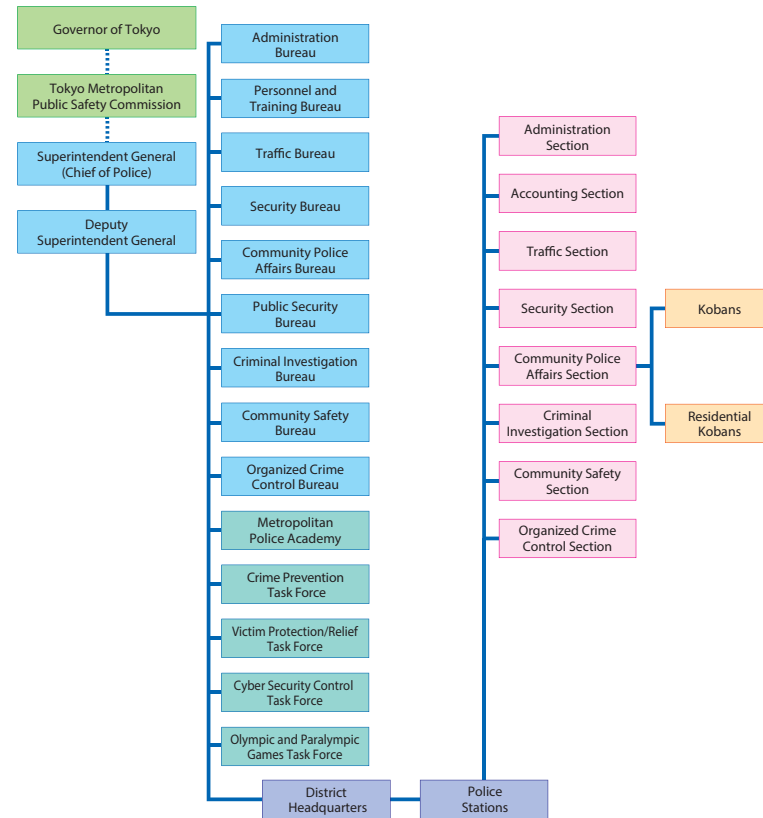

YouTube (video-sharing website)
Scan the QR code to access the Official TMPD YouTube Channel. (Public Relations Division)

Video library
Scan the QR code to access the TMPD website. (Public Relations Division)

TMPD ORGANIZATION CHART

POLICE RANK INSIGNIA*

*English translation for police ranks of Japan was partially revised in 2013. Conventional translations are indicated in parentheses in order to avoid confusion.

TMPD WORK FORCE (As of April 1, 2017)

Police officers
43,566

Police Administrative Civilians
3,015

Auxiliaries
3,120

Police Stations
102

Kobans
826

Residential Kobans
258

Community Safety Centers
82

Patrol cars
1,292

Police motorcycles
958

Security boats
22

Helicopters
14

K-9s
35

Horses
16